

CHILDREN'S BOOK PICK FOR

Black History Month

Conversation Starters

Larry's Book Pick:

Hair Love, written by Matthew Cherry, illustrated by Vashti Harrison

Why We Love It:

"Hair Love is a beautifully illustrated story that highlights the loving bond between a Black father and his daughter. While exploring themes of self-esteem and family connection, it positively showcases active fatherhood—an excellent reflection of FatherUp's mission."

- Larry Hutson, FatherUp Case Manager

- ◆ What makes Zuri's hair special, and why is it important that she learns to love it just the way it is?
- ◆ What are some things you love about yourself that make you unique?
- ◆ Zuri's dad had to learn how to style her hair. What's something you or your family recently had to learn or figure out together? How did you feel once you did it?
- ◆ How does Zuri's dad show that he loves and supports her?
- ◆ Who else helps Zuri feel confident about her hair or about who she is?

Looking for more books to read with your children?

Get AFC's Full List of Diverse Books Here!

